

Individual School Readiness Goals Development Guidance

Purpose

This provides guidance for completing the Individual School Readiness Goals (ISRG) forms with families during quarterly home visits/conferences.

Guidance

ISRG forms are used to plan effective, engaging curriculum for each child served in all PSESD Early Learning classrooms and Family Child Care Homes. The chart below explains what the steps are to set goals and use the MyTeachingStrategies GOLD (MTS GOLD) to document and track the progress.

What	How
Assess the child’s strengths and identify areas for growth across learning domains.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Collect documentation of each individual child’s work. Create and maintain descriptive, individualized observations of each child in MTS GOLD (see also Ongoing Child Assessment).
Complete MTS GOLD Checkpoints.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Use the information collected on each child’s skills, abilities and areas for growth to complete the quarterly Checkpoints in MTS GOLD by the published due dates (see monthly “To Do List”).
Share information with and gather information from the family and set goals together.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Schedule and complete quarterly conferences or home visits to share with and gather information from the family about the child’s individual strengths and areas for growth. Run individual reports from MTS GOLD to share with families. Set or revise Individual School Readiness Goals.
Record the goals and strategies and plan for home and school.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Document the identified goals and ways that the family and teachers can support their child’s learning on the Individual School Readiness Goals form (ISRG).
Plan classroom or home curriculum and environment to meet the needs of the children, including planning for individual children based on their goals.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Use the information from the ISRG form to create activities and experiences that will help each child to meet their goals and make progress in their individual learning. Document plans in MTS GOLD.
